Max Goodwin honored

April 24 proclaimed "Max Goodwin Day" in perpetuity by proclamation which praises and roasts Goodwin

Max Goodwin, publisher of the Lemon Grove Review and the Spring Valley Bulletin for nearly 40 years before selling the operation earlier this year, was officially commended by the Lemon Grove City Council at its meeting on Monday, April 17.

Mayor Jim Dorman presented Goodwin with a mayoral proclamation and a "Key to the City." April 24 was proclaimed by Mayor Dorman to be "Max Goodwin Day" in the city from this time forward. The proclamation, drafted by Karen Thomson, both praises and teases Goodwin for his many years of service to the community. Goodwin was later quoted as saying, "They got me on all counts!" The text of the proclamation follows.

WHEREAS, it is rumored that Max Goodwin was born and attended schools somewhere in his early life, and

WHEREAS, Max came to Lemon Grove from Cincinnati, Ohio, and it is unclear whether he left that City by request, chance or choice; and

WHEREAS, Max began editing and publishing the Lemon Grove Review thirty-seven years ago, and has not deviated from the equal opportunity of maintaining the type of printing machinery that makes everyone, regardless of gender, appear to have a beard, and

WHEREAS, the rumors that Max continued to publish the newspaper solely to be entitled to free tickets to sporting events are highly exaggerated, and

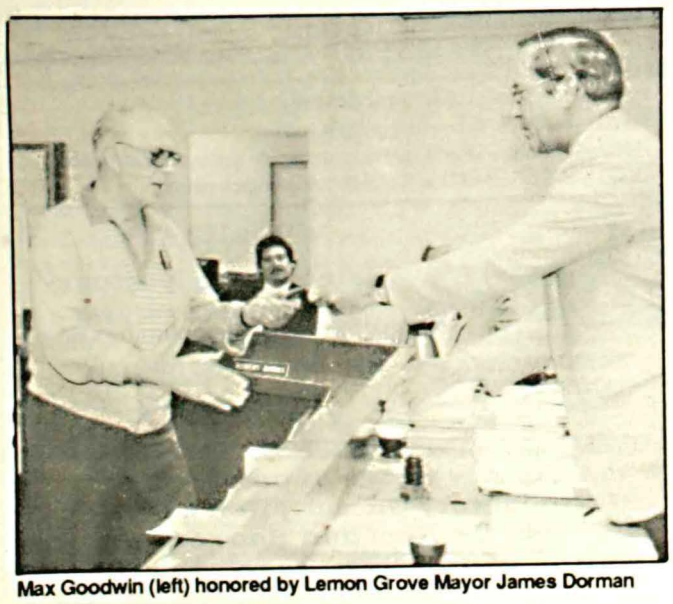

WHEREAS, Max has developed an enviable level of skill in his ability to cause the news and his own personal political beliefs to appear in his newspaper as the same thing, and

WHEREAS, Max has streamlined the art of interviewing newsmakers by simply putting quotation marks at either end of a statement that the interviewee probably would have said anyway, and

WHEREAS, when Thomas Jefferson expressed a preference for newspapers without government as opposed to government without newspapers, it is obvious that he had never read the Lemon Grove Review, and

WHEREAS, it is appropriate that on this date, just one week short of the 285th anniversary of the publication of the first regularly issued American Newspaper, (and it is NOT true that Max was the editor) that we honor a newspaperman who has faithfully and humorously reported our hopes, dreams, plans, missteps and misstatements, and encouraged the growth of our community and its residents;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, James V. Dorman, Mayor of the City of Lemon Grove, do hereby proclaim that Monday, April 24, 1989, is Max Goodwin Day in the City of Lemon Grove, and express the hope that on behalf of the City Council, Staff, and Citizens that, despite all of his above-listed shortcomings, Max Goodwin will have a long a happy retirement, and will continue to find some way to hustle free tickets to the Padre games.

Old Time Days preparations "old hat" to this committee

The Lemon Grove Old Time Days Association is hard at work these days, to make certain all of the various facets of the annual celebration fit together smoothly, said Steve Aldrich, association president.

"It truly does get bigger and better every year," Aldrich stated. He has been in charge for the past nine years. This year's event marks its 26th anniversary.

"I'm disappointed that a couple of our local school music bands have apparently met with a conflict in their scheduling, and won't be entering the parade this year as they normally do. We sure wish we could align Old Time Days with everyone's calendar, but it's just not possible," he commented.

The two-day celebration of Lemon Grove's past is scheduled for Friday, May 12 and Saturday, May 13 – a little later this year than last, Aldrich said, to avoid conflict with two other popular annual events; the Boy Scout Fair and Lakeside's Rodeo Days.

He noted that weather was another factor in the Association's scheduling considerations. April's weather is generally less predictable than May's. Last year, hundreds of parade entrants and watchers got rain-drenched. A fact that also put a damper on the Old Time Days Fair, which is usually very well attended.

"As it is, because of the later dates, we'll have more participation this year. The Scout groups and sports organizations have suspended their usual activities to be in the parade, and more school music bands from surrounding communities will appear in the parade for their first year," continued Aldrich.

"The Association has to look at the overall picture, and the parade is just a portion of that," Aldrich said. Some of the organizational responsibilities include the Friday evening barbecue dinner, street dance and fireworks.

Association president, Steve Aldrich, and wife, Erica in costumes

Saturday's community fair encompasses dozens of entertainment events, contests, and planning space for food and beverage booths, arts and crafts, non-profit groups and merchants' booths.

All of this is accomplished by a handful of people who meet frequently throughout the year. This year's association workers are: Steve's wife, Erica Aldrich, Sergeant Rusty Burkett of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Department, Jan Davis, Mike Hall, Jan Hayman, Donna Mark, Le Roy Maxwell, Nancy McCadam, John Pipes and Angelo Scimore.

"Plus dozens of daring volunteers who rise to meet the challenges of parade day," added Aldrich.

He promises some new adventures this year, among them, a kiddie carnival. And a change in venue for the street dance, which is usually western. This year features the Catillacs who play pop classics of the 1950's and 60's.

"There's always something new. And for the past few years, we've been leaning more toward a 'turn of the century' theme instead of western. More fun, more food, more folks," he promised.

See you there!

Injured motorcyclist flown to hospital

Motorcyclist Ernest P. Oschmann, 41, of San Diego, was transported by LifeFlight to Mercy Hospital, shortly after 7 a.m. Monday, for injuries he received in an accident.

Eastbound on Lemon Grove Way, Oschmann apparently overreacted when he saw a car moving out of a nearby business parking lot, according to Sgt. Rusy Burkett of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Department.

Oschmann's action flipped the cycle onto its side, and vehicle and rider slid across the roadway and onto a gravelled area. "The vehicles did not contact," Burkett said. Burkett indicated that Oschmann suffered abrasions about the head and face.

"He seemed to be in a lot of pain, and also complained of pain in his back and shoulder, so we had him transported," Burkett commented.

Child views sheriff's life a picnic

Sgt. Rusty Burkett and McGruff presenting awards to Jennifer Hagan

The drawing of a child having a picnic with a deputy sheriff won first place in a law enforcement poster/essay contest in Lemon Grove.

Jennifer Hagan, age 6, a first grader at Heartland Christian School, won a $50 U.S. savings bond, a stuffed doll of McGruff the Crime Prevention Dog, a frisbee, and a framed certificate.

The theme of the poster entries was "The Deputy Sheriff is My Friend." The poster/essay contest was coordinated by the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Crime Prevention Unit. It was held citywide for all elementary students the City of Lemon Grove.

Sponsors were the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, the Lemon Grove Rotary, the Deputy Sheriff's Association, and the Soroptimist International of Lemon Grove.

The second-place winner was Bryan Klimek, 5, a kindergartner at San Miguel Elementary. Jamie Hogan, a second-grader at St. John of the Cross won third place for her poster entry.

Honorable mentions were won by two St. John of the Cross students, Martha Chavez and Frank Lopez, both in second grade, and also a San Miguel Elementary School student, Christopher Koroly, a kindergartner.

A special award for her essay entry was presented to Rachel Klostermier, a sixth-grader at Heartland Christian School for her poster entitled, "How I Can Help McGruff to Take a Bite Out of Crime."

All children submitting an entry received a McGruff safety bag with a McGruff pencil and deputy sheriff pencil as a special "thank you" for their participation.

"All the posters are precious. It was very difficult to decide. I enjoyed all the children's work," said Isabel Arballo, a resident at St. John's Plaza, which is an active Neighborhood Watch group.

The judging committee was comprised of Neighborhood Watch members, Mrs. Arballo, Evelyn Plaza, Jackie Valdez and Evelyn Pierce.

"The idea is to get kids to think about the deputy sheriff in positive terms. Many children associate deputies – any law enforcement officer – with tickets, arrests and crime," said Crime Prevention Specialist Sally Arguilez.

"The contest was a fun project making the children think about how a deputy sheriff can help them. Entries included drawings of children being found when they were lost and of being rescued by robbers," she added.

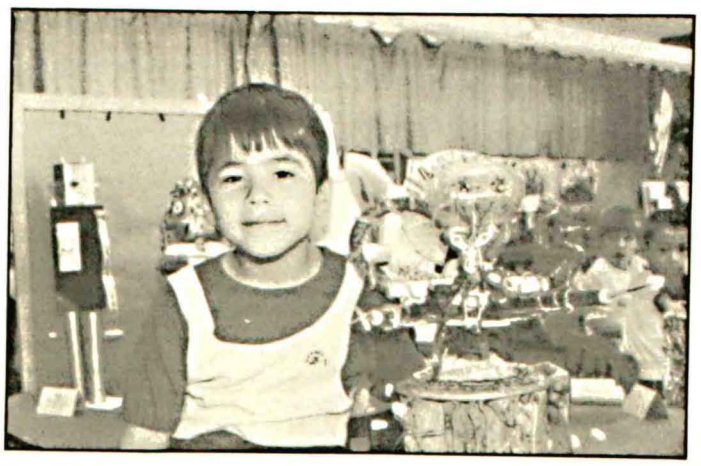

An award presentation was held at the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station on Monday, April 17. The prizes were awarded by McGruff the Crime Prevention Dog and a deputy sheriff.

The winning entries will be on display in the lobby of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station for the next month.

Joey Reese's robot wins

Joey Reese took grand prize for the robot he constructed with his family's assistance.

The family effort was a project of Beverly Rothwell's Mt. Vernon kindergarten class. She reports an encouraging 100 percent participation in the contest.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

The national budget is the trickiest operation foisted on the almost defenseless American people.

It need not be.

Were Congress totally honest, it would explain why it has been made complex. A straightforward statement would do it. "Let there be no controls on the budget, or no controls on taxes. We need one or the other to get money for re-election," would be an acceptable explanation. In either event funds would be spent on unneeded projects so that those who profit financially on the projects would put up a lot of money to see that their project pushers are returned to Washington.

Involved in the scenario might be a Congressional questions, "We love ourselves, why don't you?"

It takes awhile to rile Americans, but dissatisfaction is beginning to surface. Aided by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act (GRHA), taxpaying citizens are rising in dissent.

GRHA has set a deficit allowance for each year, gradually shrinking the gap between revenue and spending until the budget is in balance in 1993. Now, if Congress wants to spend it, it must raise taxes, since only a raise can offset spending more than income.

A national poll conducted by the Roper organization and sponsored by Citizens for a Sound Economy (CFSE) shows that citizens are sending government a clear mandate.

From the poll: 73% of Americans believe the deficit is the result of government's overspending habits. 70% believe a tax increase would be used more on spending programs rather than applied to the deficit.

80% of those polled answered that between 1980 and 1988, the median tax increase was 39%. It was almost 90%, CFSE figures show.

It also showed that Congress was to blame, rather than the President, by a margin of 3-1.

As Congress continued its unrestrained spending sprees American public unrest grew. 60% polled said they were ready to stop Congressional spending with a federal spending freeze.

65% are ready to terminate spending immediately, freezing the budget where it stands, while only 18% oppose the freeze. 68% favored a modified freeze, such as President Bush's flexible freeze, which allows a 3% spending increase; 16% oppose the proposal.

The public's negative feelings toward a tax increase stem from economic concerns. 54% believed that economic growth would be stifled by a tax increase, while only 15% saw the economy improving. Americans feared, by a 5-1 margin, that American business would lose its competitiveness under a higher tax.

The poll also showed that the public would approve a proposed restraint which requires a balanced budget and limits tax increases – a 3-1 opinion. A proposed line-item veto proposal gained American's support by the same margin.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if those in government finally came to realize that it's our money they're spending?

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

"Did you know that Jake got a 198 last week?" That was the first thing I heard at my recent visit with the blind bowlers from the Blind Recreation Center of San Diego. This group of 12 to 16 courageous people, five of whom are totally blind, bowls every Friday morning at the beautiful, new Grove Bowling Lanes.

The very courteous Sheila Tarditi, program director for the Grove Lanes, put me in touch with Preston Cyrus, who has volunteered his services for the Blind Recreation Center as coordinator and instructor for the past 16 years. This gentle, patient man, along with his able volunteer assistants, Rocco Terrizzi and Tony Soulino, guide the sightless bowlers, with verbal and hands-on instruction.

The totally blind participants are handed the bowling bowl and then led up to the line. The instructor aims the bowler in the direction of the pins by guiding his arm as it swings into action. After each ball is rolled down the lane, a look of curiosity comes over the bowlers' faces as they wait for the result of their effort. When the number of pins that have been downed is announced, the blind bowler's face expresses a look of joy and satisfaction unlike anything that I have ever seen.

Those bowlers who are legally blind, but can see a bit of light, can move about on their own, and end up with some pretty good scores. I befriended a nice young man from this group named Robert Newman who has a little sight left in one eye. Bob is full of spirit and tosses a mean bowling ball with much "gusto."

Preston Cyrus related, "Did you know that some of my bowlers can just about tell how many pins were knocked down by the sound of the ball striking the pins?"

I was told that the bowling program was originally organized by Hank Martin, a former coordinator with the Center, and is sponsored by Lions Clubs in the San Diego area.

I enjoyed spending a short morning with these audacious human beings – catching their mixed expressions; some joyful, some very serious, but all of them sharing a common interest. That also includes the patient, caring and dedicated instructors who give freely of their time and energy to help people turn their disabilities into capabilities.

I left the Grove Bowling Lanes that Friday morning with a good feeling in my heart. I had just enjoyed the company of some of the most courageous, appreciative people that I had ever met. Thank you God for them and their undaunting spirit.

It's The Law

by Martin L. Shives, Attorney at Law

QUESTION: I recently sold my car to someone who was involved in an accident. The person he hit was severely injured and has threatened to sue me. Can he do this?

ANSWER: Under the California Motor Vehicle Code, when you sell an automobile, you must take very specific steps to release liability, or you will be responsible for damages caused by your car. Additionally, you may find yourself involved in a lawsuit if your automobile insurance was not cancelled prior to the accident, because the person to whom you sold the car is considered a "permissive user" of the car and can obtain full benefits of insurance under your policy. thus, you become a "deep pocket" for the victim to chase, and you will be required to defend yourself in litigation.

Turning first to the responsibilities for releasing liability, this can be accomplished in one of two ways. First, you can sign and date the Certificate of Ownership and either you or the buyer can deliver the Certificate and the appropriate transfer fee to the Department of Motor Vehicles. A Certificate is "delivered" when it is either placed in the mail or personally delivered to the motor vehicles department. You should verify that the Certificate was sent because the buyer's failure to forward the documents will not excuse you from liability.

A second method for releasing liability is to simply send notice to the Department of Motor Vehicles that you have sold or transferred the vehicle, and include (a) the date, (b) name and address of the buyer, and (c) a description of the vehicle. The Department of Motor Vehicles has a specific form for you to use and this will ensure that you are no longer liable for any damages which arise as a result of someone's use of a car formerly owned by you. This second method of releasing liability is commonly used when the car is traded to a dealer or someone that does not intend to register the car immediately , and is the most definite way to prevent you from inadvertently being held liable for any injuries which occur.

Turning to the extend of liability, until the vehicle is transferred, you remain the "owner." All owners of motor vehicles in California are responsible for providing protection to injured persons in an amount equal to the minimum required automobile insurance coverage. Under the Financial Responsibility laws, this amount is a maximum of $15,000 per person injured, not to exceed a total of $30,000 for the entire accident. As such, simply by virtue of being an owner of the automobile, you could be held liable for this $15,000 to $30,000 amount. If the buyer has purchased a liability insurance policy (as required by law) you will receive a credit for each dollar paid by his or her insurance company and will then have little to worry about. However, if you sold the vehicle to one of the thousands of people who have not purchased insurance, you will be held jointly liable for that amount. You may, however, later be able to sue the buyer, and this will not prevent you from being involved in litigation and possibly having to pay damages or having a judgment rendered against you.

What all this means is that you must complete paperwork when you transfer the vehicle and you have a very real interest in confirming that the bank of person to whom you sold the car, or the dealer, has completed the necessary documentation. Again, if you have any doubts as to whether they have properly completed the release documents, contact any Department of Motor Vehicles office and have them mail the release of liability form to you.

A few extra seconds could be the difference between litigation and a smooth sale of your old car. Being liable when you did not cause the injury may not seem fair, but, it's the law.

Scout Fair draws thousands to annual event at San Diego Stadium

Our own ad rep, Bob Teel, or "Chief Wild Goose," was one of thousands to participate in the '89 Scout Fair held last Saturday at Jack Murphy Stadium. His braves are from left: "Turtle" (Trevor Crozier), "Running Bear" (Ed Lauer), and "Eagle's Rib" (Ash Cottrell). A living ad for Mataguay Indian Camp, these braves are members of the staff of a BSA sponsored program in Indian lore and survival. Campers live as Indians once did for 7 days each June and must be 12 years of age or older. The cost is $99. Detailed information may be obtained by calling Teel at 469-1305.

Anything military draws boys like a magnet, as proved by these scouts at the '89 Scout Fair, Saturday, April 22. Every branch of the military was represented with a broad range of vehicles, equipment and personnel. Exhibits by fire departments, sheriff, police, ambulance companies and rescue teams were also popular, along with more youthful games, fun and food.

"It's a very special award, and a meaningful one when it is given by students," said a happy Nordell, who has been teacher for 15 years – 9 years at Mt. Miguel.

"I spend a lot of time preparing for my classes," said Nordell, who feels the need to come in on weekends, and is usually one of the first to arrive, and last to leave the campus. Nordell's hard work and excellent teaching has now been recognized by the Golden Apple Award.

Mt. Miguel music spectacular to raise money for band expenses

The Mt. Miguel Band and Orchestra will be presenting a music spectacular at their upcoming Pops Concert Thursday, April 27, at 7 p.m. To ensure ample seating, the concert will be held in the social hall of the Mission Valley Church of the Nazarene, 4750 Mission Gorge Place, San Diego.

To make the evening complete, pie, cake and other goodies may be purchased and eaten during the concert. The Mt. Miguel Specialty Corp. will serve you your choice of homemade desserts while you listen to some of your favorite tunes.

The concert serves two purposes. One is to entertain the public and show what some of the teenagers of today are capable of doing for the good of society. The second purpose of the concert is to raise money for the band. The activities of the band are not school funded, so the students not only spend a great deal of time practicing after school, but also must find time for fundraising activities. They raise money for uniforms, and for transportation to the competitions they enter throughout the state.

The admissions is $1. However, those wishing to underwrite more of the band's expenses may send a donation to the Mt. Miguel High School Band, 1800 Sweetwater Rd., Spring Valley, Calif. 92077, in care of Roy Anthony, Director.

Your donation will help the youth of today in a positive way and make sure the music program continues to be strong.

San Diego Trust celebrates centennial with multitude of community events

San Diego Trust & Savings Bank, San Diego's largest locally-owned bank, will celebrate its centennial with a variety of community events taking place throughout the year.

Founded by Joseph Sefton Sr., the bank, then called the San Diego Savings Bank, was located on the corner of Fifth and E Streets, in downtown San Diego.

Renamed San Diego Trust & Savings Bank in 1925, it now has 49 branch offices and 132 automated teller machine locations throughout San Diego County.

Kicking off the centennial celebration is the "100 Years of Locomotion" exhibit in the bank's main office, 540 Broadway. This free exhibit runs through October 15 and showcases San Diego Trust President Thomas Sefton's collection of Lionel trains, Buddy "L" mechanical toys and antique generators. A photographic representation of San Diego's railroading history will also be part of the display.

From June 11 through December 31, Thomas Sefton's personal collections of early Americana, California plein air paintings and Laurel and Hardy films, titled, "Dolls, Toys, Trains and Treasures: Reflections of a Lifetime of Curiosity," will be on exhibit at the Museum of San Diego History in Balboa Park.

As a gift to the people of San Diego, the bank plans to underwrite the redesign and restoration of the intersection at Laurel Street and Balboa Drive in Balboa Park.

A San Diego Trust Centennial Book will be published by the bank to help commemorate its 100th anniversary. It will not only offer a recount of the bank's history, but also that of San Diego and the Sefton family.

State unemployment rate drops

California's unemployment rate in March was 4.5 percent – a sharp drop from 5.0 percent in February and the lowest rate in more than 19 years (in December 1969, the rate was 4.4 percent), the state Employment Development Department (EDD) reported. The rate last year was 5.2 percent.

EDD Director Kaye R. Kiddoo said that he was also very impressed that the number of people employed in California had declined to 640,000 – the lowest number since May 1974.

The number of people employed in California totaled 13,480,000 in March, compared with 13,405,000 in February, and 13,196,000 in March 1988. Unemployment totaled 640,000 in March, compared with 712,000 in February and 717,000 in March last year.

Of the unemployed, 350,200 were laid off; 101,600 left their jobs voluntarily and the remaining were new entrants or re-entrants into the labor market.

In related data, EDD reported that there were 398,773 persons receiving regular unemployment insurance benefits during the March survey week. This compares with 381,504 last month and 354,074 last year. At the same time, new claims for UI totaled 47,675 in March, compared with 45,694 in February and 49,887 in March last year.

Travellers beware! Traffic snarls at Lindbergh Field are a strong possibility for next five months

Starting May 1, passengers are urged to allow extra time getting to their airline flights as they enter the Lindbergh Field airport terminals. Periodic traffic delays are anticipated while the airport roads are resurfaced.

The Board of Port Commissions has awarded a $1.5 million project to R.E. Hazard, Jr., Inc. Completion is expected in September, 1989.

The repair and resurfacing project will enable the roadways to carry the increased present-day traffic flow. Stronger pavement will be installed to handle increased vehicular loads, providing convenient and safe transport for citizens traveling to the airport.

Resurfacing of the approach roads to the terminals and parking lots is scheduled from 5:30 a.m.-11 p.m. Resurfacing the roads in front of the terminals is scheduled to be accomplished between 11:30 p.m.-5:30 a.m. However, some disruption will occur during the daytime hours as well.

During working hours, the various transportation pick-up points will be subject to temporary relocation. Signage will inform passengers of where taxi and shuttle service can be found.

It would be advantageous for travelers to use commercial transportation, a shuttle van or taxi to arrive at the airport.

There are several "park and ride" lots near Lindbergh Field where travelers can park their vehicles for a daily fee and receive free pick-up and drop-off shuttle service.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Don't look now, but a full quarter of the football season has passed by. The Draft has come and gone. And the Chargers look more like a playoff team right now than they have in a decade.

Broken down into its essential base, National Football League teams annually campaign in 4 distinct "seasons." They start with the Draft campaign, which is followed by the vastly lengthened "pre-season," that includes such things as chasing down and signing "free agents," "mini-camps," "weekend drills," and "rookie camps," all the way through the actual pre-season training camp, controlled scrimmages and exhibition games.

All that leads up to the regular season campaign in which each team tries to win at least 10 of 16 games to qualify for the 4th season, the "NFL Playoffs" and "Super Bowl" derby.

As of this week, the "Draft" campaign is over. The Chargers dipped into the NFL basket of dreams and came out with some pretty exciting additions to head coach Dan Henning's squad.

In taking Pittsburgh's 6-foot-5, 270-pound defensive end Burt Grossman, the Chargers seem serious about installing a devastating pass rush to an already impressive defensive unit.

Grossman will likely lineup with Leslie O'Neal and Pro Bowl warrior Lee Williams to give the Chargers an awesome charge.

Backed up by a once-again healthy line-backing corps of considerable merit, which had already been bolstered by 4 veterans signed under the new NFL free-agency plan, the Chargers look to be tough to run against and damn hard to pass against.

Score one for Henning. When owner Alex Spanos and his football Chief of Staff, Steve Ortmayer, went looking for a new coach, they wanted one that would blend in with progress already made in an extensive rebuilding campaign.

Defense had been tackled first. The rebuilding campaign had been ongoing for 2 years and Henning liked what he saw. He kept the entire defensive staff and gave defensive coordinator Ron Lynn and his line coach, Gunther Cunningham, cause for real celebration with the drafting of Burt Grossman.

Rebuilding the offensive unit was returned to schedule with the drafting of 6-foot-2, 260-pound center Courtney Hall, who is bright enough to have graduated from Rice University with honors at the age of 20. The defense is led by Bill Ray (Smith), and now the offense has its own Billy. Billy Joe Tolliver has a cannon of a arm and loves to pass.

Last year the Chargers got their pass offense geared up with receivers Quinn Early and Tony Miller. They are both "burners" who have out-run the Chargers quarterback passing range.

Henning signed former San Diego State assistant Ted Tollner away from Buffalo. Tollner, a winning head coach at USC before turning to the pros, will coach Charger quarterbacks this year.

The Chargers gave away 3 draft choices to the New York Giants in exchange for their 2nd round to grab the rocket-armed Tolliver. As you might have guessed, Tollner is wild about Tolliver. He and Henning worked him out for an entire day in pre-draft examinations.

The Chargers might have plugged 3 holes with their high draft selections. They may not make it to the Super Bowl this year, but it looks as if they are finally on the right path.

Spring Valley's Salud wins again

Jesus Salud, (21-3), the hard-hitting North American Boxing Federation Super Bantamweight Champion, took a giant step in his career Thursday night when he knocked out his opponent Carlos "Monkey" Salinas (12-6) of Mexico City at 1 minute, 59 seconds of the first round of a bout scheduled for 10.

The fight, the main event at Pro-Box Promotions third-Thursday fight card at El Cortez Convention Center, played to a standing-room-only crowd which apparently had come to support Salud.

Salud, a Spring Valley resident, dropped Salinas 3 times in the processing winning. Referee Frank Rustich waved the loser out by the time he hit the canvas. The coup de grace was delivered by Salud on an overhand right to the head.

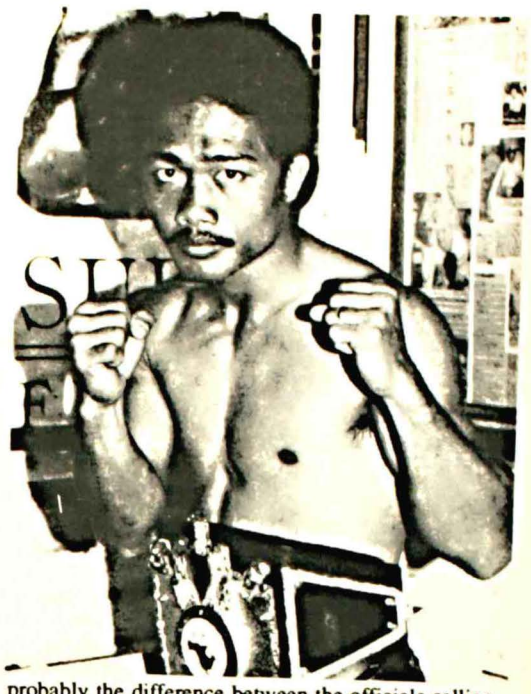

Records show that Salud has won on KO's in the third, second and first founds since coming to San Diego from Hawaii, a couple of months ago.

He is scheduled to defend his crown in another fight May 25, if a suitable opponent can be found.

In other bouts, Lt. Heavyweight Randy Leaks (9-2) lost a lackluster battle to Nathan Houser (12-2) in the semi-main 8-rounder.

Rigo Lopez, (20-10), until a few months ago, viewed as an up-and-coming junior middleweight, lost a 6-rounder to Eric McNair.

Jesus "Baja" Ramirez, (14-0), a rising welterweight, took the nod from officials in a 6-rounder against Brian Davenport (11-2). Ramirez dropped Davenport for an 8-count in the 5th, and that was probably the difference between the officials calling it a draw.

The opening bout didn't even warm up the fans. Bantamweight Leopoldo Maya (2-1) lifted Juan Castena (1-1) off the floor about 6 inches with an uppercut after 28 seconds of sparring. Castena was then counted out.

Cottrell and Buth earn Japanese trip

Two Spring Valley wrestlers have been chosen to participate in a Japanese wrestling tournament as part of a cultural exchange trip June 20-July 4.

The local wrestlers, among the 13 making the trip, are Ronnie Cottrell of Cristobal Way, most recently named most outstanding wrestler at Monte Vista High School, and Dwayne Buth, of Blossom Lane, the Mt. Miguel High School wrestler who recently won the state 165 pound title.

The wrestlers, chosen as the California U.S.A. wrestling team, were chosen for wrestling ability, leadership and citizenship.

They will participate in 8 dual meets against Japanese high school wrestlers primarily in the Osaka and Kyoto areas. U.S.A. wrestlers will be hosted by the families of wrestlers from the school with whom they compete.

The U.S.A. team will have a mini-camp at West Valley College, Saratoga, Ca., prior to their departure to Japan on June 19.

Matadors field strong track squad again

By Brian McGuire

In '88, the Mt. Miguel Matadors were the best in the league and took the C.I.F. title. This year, Mt. Miguel again has many outstanding athletes. Damian Coleman participates in the triple jump, long jump, and the 440 relay. Damian, one of the best triple jumpers in the league, is predicted to go the the state championships this year.

Kwasi Gee is the Matadors top 440 runner and relay man, even though he has a broken ankle.

Jerome Ware is another excellent runner for Mt. Miguel. He does the 100 yard dash, the shot put and the discus. Jerome performs well in all three areas and plans to enter the decathlon in college.

Brian McGuire is a high jumper, 330 hurdler, and also does the 440 relay. McGuire is currently ranked top in the league in the 330 hurdles and third in the country. McGuire stated, "This team is family. Everyone is very close and and gives his all for the team."

WHEREAS, the City has published a Negative Declaration of Environmental Impact regarding the proposed amendment on February 16, 1989; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission has recommended the proposed Zoning Ordinance amendment to provide for the expansion of nonconforming commercial uses subject to specific findings and under certain conditions; and

WHEREAS, a public hearing was duly noticed and held on April 3, 1989, and

WHEREAS, the City Council finds and declares that:

1. The proposed amendment is consistent with the General Plan in accordance with the California Government Code, Section 65860; and
2. The public health, safety and general welfare require the adoption of the proposed amendment.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1: Modify Section 17.24.090 of the Lemon Grove Zoning Ordinance as follows:

L. Conditional Expansion of Nonconforming Commercial Uses

Nonconforming commercial uses existing prior to August 1, 1983, in the General Commercial and Heavy Commercial zones, may be expanded subject to the approval of a conditional use permit according to the procedure set forth in Section 17.28.050. The Planning Commission and City Council may presume that the expansion of such nonconforming use may be found to be consistent with the General Plan, even though it may not fully conform with the adopted Land Use Element Map, if such expansion can be accomplished according the following criteria:

1. The expansion is generally consistent with the purpose and intent of the General Plan.
2. The expansion as proposed and as conditioned by the Planning Commission or City Council will result in substantial benefit to the public.
3. The subject property and all existing and proposed improvements shall conform, as closely as possible, to all current regulations, standards and policies of the City, including, but not limited to those which affect:
   a. Building and site design including building materials, colors, signage, paving, curbs, gutters and sidewalks.
   b. Building, housing and fire codes.
   c. Traffic circulation and off-street parking.
   d. Landscape and screening.
   e. Control of noise, glare, fire and explosion hazards, dust and other airborne emissions including odors and smoke, liquid and solid wastes, and all other potential nuisances and hazards.

M. New Dwelling Units

The number of dwelling units in a nonconforming building may be increased to the maximum density allowed in the district, provided that:

1. The nonconforming building is located in a residential district;
2. The units are added solely as a result of the division of the interior of the existing building, and the exterior dimensions of the buildings are not changed; and
3. The regulations of the district in which it is located, the development requirements of this Title, and all applicable City building and housing codes are fully complied with.

N. Abatement

1. Nonconforming Uses

Any nonconforming use, except residential uses, located in any residential district, shall be discontinued within a period of time to be determined by the City Council after public hearings.

2. Nonconforming Structures

a. Any nonconforming structure located in any residential district, other than dwellings, churches and schools, which structure is designed or used for a use permitted in a business district shall be removed or altered to be structurally conforming within a time specified by the City Council. In no event shall such time limit be less than ten (10) nor more than forty (40) years from the date such a structure becomes nonconforming.

b. The Planning Director shall cause notice to be given to the owners of such structure at least five (5) years prior to the time removal or alteration is required to be completed, and yearly thereafter until such five (5) year period has lapsed.

c. The provisions of this section shall not apply to structures which are nonconforming only with respect to the yard requirements and parking requirements of this title.

Section 8A. This ordinance shall be effective thirty (30) days after its adoption and the City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this Ordinance and cause it to be published at least once in the Lemon Grove Review within fifteen (15) days after its adoption.

John Culea to speak at Prayer Breakfast to be held in Lemon Grove

The annual Community Prayer Breakfast, sponsored by Lemon Grove service clubs, will feature John Culea, a television news anchor and reported of KFMB-TV, as keynote speaker. He is a frequent speaker at churches in San Diego County.

The prayer breakfast is an interdenominational event focusing on inspirational messages, and is traditionally well attended by local business leaders and the public. It will be held this year on Tuesday, May 23, at 7 a.m. in the Lemon Grove Community Center.

The event's committee is chaired by Reverend Joan Pettis, and includes Erica Aldrich, Donna Conrad, Dr. Bob Burns, Dr. Pete Shea, and Deputy Don Robbins.

Tickets, at $6 per person, are available from committee members or from members of the Kiwanis, Soroptimist, and Rotary Clubs of Lemon Grove, and the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce.
